The application is a computer resource management software that enables fast and easy control of a large number of computers in an Internet Cafe. The resource is well-equipped to tackle large businesses, which means most benefit will be obtained by medium to large-scale enterprises. The application is highly flexible and allows recording most tasks that a regular systems operator would encounter. The software has many functions that enable an owner to remotely control, monitor and track a PC, including its status, usage, etc. Krisan Cafe is a great utility for anyone who owns Internet or Games Cafes. The resource is well-equipped to tackle large businesses, which means most benefit will be obtained by medium to large-scale enterprises. The application is highly flexible and allows recording most tasks that a regular systems operator would encounter. The resource is very intuitive and highly customizable As with most managing tools, one must first specify the initial parameters. In this case, users must define the actual Internet Cafe, in terms of numbers of available computers. The first time the software is run, it will automatically load 30 units; however, users are free to customize the application according to the actual layout. One of the great features is the resource's accessibility. Anyone can start managing computers within just a few minutes, after the initial setup is complete. In essence, the only activity one has to master is adding minutes to a computer. The program records all tasks, including computer login operations and, therefore, all sales and expenses. Operators can issue batch remote commands Another notable function is the ability to remotely connect to any computer. Simple batch commands are also supported, such as shutting down all free computers, or turning on all off units. Krisan Cafe comes with a few auxiliary tools such as a "Bandwidth Monitor", as well as database backup and optimizer modules. The program is able to generate detailed reports related to a wide variety of topics, such as sales, login tasks, employee activity, as well as computer usage. All documents are exported as RTFs and can be printed from within the program. One can employ the software to keep track of all commercial activity in an Internet Cafe To sum up, Krisan Cafe is a comprehensive solution for managing Internet Cafes of any size and configuration. Features of this software: - Very easy to use and navigate through the menus. - A lot of options and a lot of function are offered. - Very configurable - could
